Good morning sir and how are you?

I have not heard from you in a while but Myself along with about 5 other of my OC instructors were thinking of you yesterday when we got certified as OC instructors!

Part of the practical portion of the training was to get a direct exposure of OC to the face and run an obstacle course which consisted of making a radio call for help, going to another station and hitting a heavy bag with a baton and than last but not least knee and hand strikes to a heavy bag.

Anyway the point of the story is this, I took a direct hit to the face with the Sabre Red cone and ran the obstacle course fairly well to defend myself but the down right incapacitation that it caused me and my fellow instructors was unbelievable.

You have sold me on this product and I am from this point and time on, going to push this particular product on the administration of both jails as a great product!

I just wanted you to be aware of this and thanks for a wonderful product!

Also with winter fast approaching I was wondering again about the range jackets that we were working on last year!

That's about it take care!
